

Rachel comes from a family with three generations of entrepreneurs. Growing up around so many business owners, she saw firsthand how frustrating and time consuming the legal system could be. Rachel chose to go to law school because she wants to help people solve their legal problems so that they can focus on the things that matter most to them.

Rachel recently relocated to Charlotte from Philadelphia, PA, where she graduated from Temple University Beasley School of Law. At Temple, Rachel was a Law & Public Policy Scholar. She also participated in Temple's Integrated Trial Advocacy Program, where she was able to spend significant time in the courtroom. Rachel has previously worked on matters concerning health insurance, business litigation, civil rights, and personal injury. Outside of her time at the firm, Rachel enjoys exploring the Pisgah National Forest with her husband and dog, Porter.
